MILLIONTH CIRCLE Intention Statement

Circles encourage connection and cooperation among their members and inspire compassionate solutions to individual, community, and world problems. We believe that circles support each member to find her or his own voice and to live more courageously. We intend:

- To seed and nurture circles, wherever possible, in order to cultivate equality, sustainable livelihoods, preservation of the earth and peace for all.
- To bring the circle process into United Nations accredited non-governmental organizations and the 5th UN World Conference on Women in 2005.
- To connect circles so they may know themselves as a part of a larger movement to shift consciousness in the world.

Why register your Circle with us?

One circle by itself may feel isolated and powerless to effect global changes such as stopping wars, saving the planet from ecological destruction, and creating an everlasting peace. However, thousands of circles connected together can help share information and organize to create social change. When you register your circle with us, you will be connected to other circles with similar interests.

The Millionth Circle intends to increase the power of people engaged in grassroots change by linking existing circles of concerned women and men as well as seeding and nurturing new circles. Because we live in the age of global communication, the Millionth Circle can organize hundreds of thousands of individuals through the Internet and electronic mail.

Imagine when enough people say no to the selling of arms, or children as soldiers, of children and women sold into prostitution, to genetically altered food, to the privatization of water, or the destruction of the rain forest. Imagine when we teach one another a simpler way of life that is healing for ourselves and Mother Earth. Imagine when the people's voices are heard in multinational corporations, leading to socially and environmentally responsible corporations.

Imagine a time when ALL circles who care about peace are part of the international non-violent peacemaking efforts. GEA's Global Action to Prevent War along with many peace organizations has a proposal with the United Nations to create a Global Nonviolent Peace Force. This will be a professionally trained corps to serve as an alternative to large-scale military peacekeeping forces. Imagine the positive effect when independent circles concerned about peace learn of this and other programs and begin to add their voices and energy to making peace a reality.

Join the Millionth Circle. Become connected to a world movement to cultivate equality, sustainable livelihoods, preservation of the earth, and peace for all.
